About Us

Our mission: To build stronger communities through education, research and career development.

Wintec, one of New Zealand's leading institutes of technology, helps drive the development of a skilled workforce not only in New Zealand, but around the world.

We are a modern institute of technology with a reputation for providing quality education. Our graduates are work-ready and in demand by employers.

Our students learn professional and vocational skills in stimulating and supportive environments. We offer training in engineering, trades, science, technology, agriculture, sport, health and social services, education, business, tourism, hospitality, events, English language, communication and the creative industries. Our qualifications range from certificates and diplomas to degrees and post-graduate programmes.

We employ staff with industry knowledge, often practising professionals in their given fields of expertise.

Their knowledge is passed on to our students through innovative teaching, combined with state-of-the-art technology and modern campus facilities.

To ensure we meet the needs of the job market, we work closely with employers, industry and community organisations to understand and respond to the skills required in today's workforce.

Our students come from the Waikato, around New Zealand and the world. We are globally connected through partnerships with international institutions and many of our programmes are delivered offshore.

We have grown from a small technical college to one of New Zealand's largest tertiary education institutes. Wintec, along with 15 other technical institutes is part of Te Pūkenga, New Zealand Institute of Skills and Technology.

Celebrating success

Learner success is underpinned by our focus to cultivate supportive environments, create opportunities and deliver qualifications that transition and develop our students for a world that is changing faster than ever before.

Our best stories come from our students and their success in navigating the opportunities that change worlds from ordinary to awesome.

Cambridge Mitre 10 Mega Manager, Tony Togia is turning his work experience into a postgraduate qualification at Wintec.

What happened when Tony went back to class

On his first day at Wintec, 47-year-old Tony Togia took out a pen and opened his notebook before he noticed the rest of the class unpacking their laptops.

Tony, the manager at Mitre 10 Mega in Cambridge knows his job well but returned to study in 2020 to put a qualification behind his years of work experience.

He is studying a Graduate Diploma in Strategic Management part-time over two years.

A lot has happened since that first day in February.

“My two sons really laughed when I told them,” says Tony with a smile.

Tony who is of Samoan descent, grew up in Tokoroa. In his last year of school, he applied to study sports management, advanced computer studies and electrical engineering.

“I just didn’t know what I wanted to do.”

You could say it was like playing Russian Roulette with study, but it backfired when he was left with some big choices to make and none of them felt right.

“I was accepted for all of them and ended up taking a job at The Warehouse.

“I have always let work create opportunities for me. Now I’m giving myself that opportunity,” says Tony.

“We are working in a changing environment and I might have years of experience, but I wanted to formalise my qualification. I wish I had done this earlier.”

“The toughest thing has been getting back into learning, but it has changed in a really good way. I really enjoy the Ako concept of learning away from the traditional classroom that I am experiencing at Wintec.”

In te ao Māori, the concept of ako means both to teach and to learn.

“The stuff I am learning, I am using,” he says.

“I have a whole new insight into tertiary education, and I can now talk with my sons about their plans and opportunities.

We’re learning a lot of cultural stuff, like the Treaty of Waitangi and how this impacts on business and this is important.”

Tony has advice for others who may be contemplating adding some qualifications to their life experience.

“It’s never too late. Looking back, I would have told my 20-year-old self ‘Just do it! Sign up and experience a whole new world for yourself’”

How Anna is getting paid to study sport

When 20-year-old Wintec sport student Anna Blackburn got the call to say her study fees were going to be covered by a scholarship, she thought someone was playing a practical joke.

Luckily this wasn't the case and Anna, who was in her third year studying a Bachelor of Sport and Exercise Science at Wintec, is thankful her final year of study is fees-free thanks to Hamilton City Netball Centre and Wintec's Centre for Sport Science and Human Performance.

The scholarship is a welcome reprieve from what was a difficult year. Anna was sick for five months in 2019, contracting glandular fever, strep throat and tonsillitis at the same time, making it difficult to get out of bed let alone complete her studies.

"Receiving this scholarship and having my fees paid for the year means so much to me. After being sick for half of last year, I had a chance to catch up with my studies and complete my degree. For a while there, I wasn't sure if this was possible!" says Anna.

As part of the arrangement, Anna will help coach some of Hamilton City Netball Centre's junior programmes, a role she is excited about.

Once she completes her study, Anna hopes to work with a professional sports team, either coaching or assisting with strength and conditioning programmes.

Wintec and Hamilton City Netball Centre first started working together in 2016 to help develop netball in the region. Wintec students provide basic services such as massage, strapping and first aid throughout the netball season as well strength and conditioning support, injury management and nutrition advice, athlete testing and facilitating parent and athlete workshops.

Resilience has become a strength for Cherish McMillan-Knapp, pictured here with Wintec academic and mentor Prue Jefferis.

This student is working to help Māori and Pasifika learners succeed

Third year Wintec business student, Cherish McMillan-Knapp is 22 years-old and she has learnt resilience the hard way.

Secondary school didn't end well when she failed to achieve University Entrance and her dream to study business at university was shattered.

"I had a rough year in Year 13 and self-doubt was starting to brew, it got worse when I failed UE and had to rethink my options. When a careers advisor said I wasn't smart enough to go to university, it really stunted me."

Cherish was advised to do a Level 3 Business course at Wintec to enter tertiary study. At the time it felt like an insult.

"I didn't know that bridging courses were a thing and I didn't like the sound of business study, but I did well. I got A's. At high school I didn't achieve, so to come to tertiary education and thrive was unexpected."

Then she failed two accounting papers.

"I was made to feel like it wasn't the end of the world and accept that accounting just wasn't my thing. I signed up for HR [Human Resources] as people-type roles appealed to me."

Of Ngāti Maniapoto descent, Cherish had to choose a research topic in her third year of a Bachelor of Applied Management.

"My topic was how best to support Māori and Pasifika students into tertiary study.

Her research has four themes: Tikanga (protocol), Whanaungatanga (connection between people) Cultural Responsiveness and Student Retention. Cherish was awarded top academic oral presentation for her project.

To top it off, she was accepted into the Te Hononga ā Kiwa Māori Business programme which aims to increase Māori business engagement across the world.

"Part of the application required me to describe myself in three words. I replied with 'bubbly', 'determined' and 'motivated'."

Those three words were a whole new dialogue for Cherish.

"I've experienced failure, but I have grown resilience. I have more self-worth and I am learning to acknowledge that," she says.

Māori Pasifika Trades Training is the ticket for Tuku

Plumbing may have an unglamorous reputation, but for Wintec Māori Pasifika Trades Training (MPTT) student, Tuku Rapana-Stevenson, there's a whole lot more involved than just unblocking pipes.

As well as the practical and technical side of things, plumbing, like any trade is also about developing good relationships.

After a three-month trial, he has landed a plumbing apprenticeship in his hometown, Raglan with Protech Plumbing.

Last year he signed up for a free six-month Plumbing, Gasfitting and Drainlaying Level 3 course with the MPTT whānau at Wintec.

'After a three-month trial, he has landed a plumbing apprenticeship in his hometown, Raglan with Protech Plumbing.'

"It wasn't easy at the start," he says. "At first you have to think constantly about everything you do, but that's the reality of plumbing."

With Tuku on board, Grant Mathis has a team of four, including his partner in life, Jess Mathis who coordinates the business end of Protech Plumbing.

A plumbing apprenticeship is a five-year journey. Grant says that making the decision to take on an apprentice is based on compatibility, work ethic and skills.

"It's quite a journey learning everything you need to know about the supply of water and gas or removing waste including gasfitting and drainlaying. Every day Tuku is arming himself with more vital skills and those skills support us."

Wintec MPTT Work Broker, Kaleo Benavides and Student Advisor Dan Rikihana are part of a wider team who support Māori and Pasifika students holistically and academically. They will continue to be there for Tuku.

For three months Tuku was on a paid 90-day trial where he was learning on the job. At the end of this, he got the good news he had earned an apprenticeship at Protech.

Dan and Kaleo agree that landing a successful apprenticeship is just like dating.

"It's a relationship," says Dan. "Both sides need to get to know each other, so the three-month trial is good. If you're not compatible, then it's not going to work out."

Both agree the importance of teaching soft skills is often underestimated.

"After all," says Kaleo, "trades are about working with people".

Sabine is building her career from a love of languages

Faced with decreasing demand for her freelance translating, Cambridge-based Sabine Lang searched for an alternative way to share her love of languages and the answer was to teach English.

Languages have always been a big part of German-born Sabine's life. She speaks English, German, Portuguese, Spanish and French.

"Globalisation and the digital era have increasingly automated translation services and lowered fees, reducing my potential to earn as a translator. I love languages and I needed to reset my career. I was casually browsing for options and came across the Wintec TESOL [Teaching English as a Second Language] course, so I applied."

What happened next was a surprise to Sabine who hadn't thought about the potential for her to teach English or that she would be learning another language.

"I speak five languages so I thought I would give it a go. I had an interview, and I was told my linguistic background was perfect. From day one, I realised I should have done this a long time ago."

To help students understand what it's like to learn a new language, Wintec TESOL students learn another language. For Sabine it was Korean, a new language and a new alphabet.

"Now I really know how hard it must be for people who learn English and learn to read and write a new alphabet," she admits.

The Graduate Diploma in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages will enable her to teach in an English language school, and in schools as an English Language Assistant.

Although New Zealand's borders were closed during 2020 and into 2021, Sabine says it was still a great time to study and get qualified as there is demand for English language teachers.

"You have such an impact on people's lives."

Why this storyteller is going to be a journalist

There's a keenness about Wintec student Maryana Garcia that is infectious. Talk to her for a few minutes and the possibilities of the world suddenly open and you discover she is on a mission to prove journalism is alive because it is her "absolute calling".

Maryana studied a one-year Graduate Diploma in Communication specialising in Journalism at Wintec School of Media Arts.

"It has taken a while to convince myself what I really want to do and I'm all in, no holds barred," she says with conviction.

"I know the market is tough. But I have a dream to tell other people's stories, to be a journalist."

It's not just a dream.

The reality is Maryana has been telling people's stories. Her project, Unsung Aotearoa, which she started during the COVID-19 lockdown, is a lens on the lives of her Hamilton housemates.

"I figured no one else would know the people I know, so I interviewed the people in my bubble. Now I have a time capsule of these people from my lockdown world."

Unsung Aotearoa started as a course assignment, but Maryana has a plan to go back and re-interview the people from her lockdown bubble.

Twenty-eight-year-old Maryana was one of thousands of tertiary students forced to learn online from March-June in 2020. In some ways she says she was lucky living in a 14-bed private hostel, so she was never alone, but she missed the campus community.

"Everyone was tired from lockdown. There was a tenseness and a sense that life will never be the same. Being a student is a community sharing experience. That's what a lot of people missed because we weren't meeting up in class.

"The main thing is for a student to never feel alone, because you can feel powerless."

Maryana satisfied her natural curiosity for meeting new people by connecting with two new people every day. She made connections with journalists and ended up landing an internship at the Waikato Times.

"I had to push myself, it was hard but being confined was motivating. If you are willing to reach out, you will connect with people. Wintec has also helped me make connections."

She says this year has been "100 percent, a positive experience".

Rocketspark and Wintec partner to get local business online for free

A partnership with a purpose has seen Wintec students using Rocketspark's five-star web building platform to create free e-commerce sites for Waikato businesses.

More than 80 ecommerce websites have been built by Wintec students studying the Graduate Diploma in Supply Chain Logistics since 2019 for start-ups and existing businesses.

Rocketspark, a small Cambridge-based software company, has a big heart when it comes to lending a helping hand to support IT education and making operating online a reality for local businesses.

Head of Partnerships at Rocketspark, Jason Tiller, says they will continue to supply their award-winning website builder and work with students to continue the successful programme.

"Every business needs a website and students have designed 80 bespoke ecommerce websites for local businesses, for free."

'Every business needs a website and students have designed 80 bespoke ecommerce websites for local businesses, for free.'

"This partnership is creating a path for business to sell online, and it proves you don't need to outlay massive amounts of money to launch into the e-commerce space."

Once the site is designed, Wintec students 'hand over the keys' to the new owners who can then choose to go onto Rocketspark's paid subscription plans and launch their websites.

Tiller adds that while the world has changed in many ways due to COVID-19, ecommerce grew significantly.

Wintec academic Ehsan Yaeghoobi tutors the Graduate Diploma in Supply Chain Logistics, a programme for people who already have a degree, or relevant work experience and want to upskill into supply chain and management positions.

“Supply chain logistics is an increasingly exciting and vital space connecting suppliers, distributors, manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers to end users. Ecommerce is an important link, and COVID-19 has shown that being able to sell online and deliver in contactless ways is now more important than ever. It is a vital link in the supply chain,” says Yaeghoobi.

‘Supply chain logistics is an increasingly exciting and vital space connecting suppliers, distributors, manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers to end users.’

“Our business partners get a website that meets current industry best practice, and our students benefit from the experience of building that site, understanding customer requirements and focusing on what works for them and their customer base.”

Wintec students studying supply chain and logistics have built 80 free websites for local businesses.

Māori staff and student scholarship winners aim to lead and inspire in their communities

Late last year the winners of the Dame Te Atairangikaahu Scholarship at Wintec were recognised at Te Kōpū Mānia o Kirikiriroa Marae.

Jahna Tangiora (Ngāti Kahungunu, Ngāti Porou, Waikato-Maniapoto), Taylar Tuhakaraina (Ngāti Hauā, Te Ātihaunui a Pāpā Rangi) and Hina Pokaia (Waikato-Tainui, Ngāti Mahuta, Ngāti Māhanga), were the three recipients of the award in 2020.

The daughter of Kingi Tūheitia, Puhi Ariki Ngāwaihonoitepō, presented their awards.

At the ceremony, Hera White, Executive Director Māori at Wintec, announced that in 2021, the number of scholarships available will increase to seven, to show that Wintec are committed to lifting Māori in all areas of healthcare offered by Wintec’s health programmes.

Recipient Jahna Tangiora, an Enrolled Nursing student at Wintec who also works at Te Kōhao Health, the largest Māori health provider in Hamilton, was tearful as she spoke about how much the scholarship means to her.

“This journey hasn’t been easy. As a solo māmā, it’s hard. But I’m doing this for my children and my tūpuna.

“I’m pursuing my dream of making medicine more understandable and easier for whānau.”

Taylar Tuhakaraina, a second year Bachelor of Nursing student, said this scholarship will help her achieve her goals of providing healthcare for the wider Māori community.

“The skills and knowledge I gain from this course will enable me to provide and advocate for our Māori community, ensuring they receive equitable care and have access to the resources and services that will better their health and wellbeing.”

In a similar vein, Hina Pokaia, a Bachelor of Nursing student in her third year, said a career in health with “provide ongoing opportunities to maintain and improve quality nursing care that is beneficial for the Māori community.”

The Dame Te Atairangikaahu Scholarship was initiated to give opportunities to Māori in the Waikato-Tainui region to pursue study in midwifery and nursing, to address a serious lack of Māori perspective and representation in the health sector. Recipients receive financial support for up to three years to assist with their study fees.

Challenges no obstacle for eight Wintec Adult Learner Award winners

Eight adult students with a passion and determination for learning, were recognised at the 2020 Adult Learner Awards at Wintec.

The outstanding student winners study a diverse range of vocational qualifications including architecture, music and performing arts, IT, midwifery, teaching, nursing, languages and sport and exercise science, and are all at least 25 years old.

The recipients of this year's awards were Annaleise Giles (Architectural Technology), Keri Pewhairangi (Bachelor of Music & Performing Arts), Grayson Newton-Smith (Bachelor of Teaching (ECE)) and Park Chatchawalit (New Zealand Certificate in English) who received the Foundation and Adult Learner Award.

The Māori and Pasifika Adult Learner Award was shared between Vicky Henry (Bachelor of Midwifery), Sasha Harper (Bachelor of Sport & Exercise Science – Level 7), Eady Manawaiti (Bachelor of Technology), while Eunseo Park (Bachelor of Nursing) received the International Student Award.

Wintec Acting Dean and Director People and Culture, Katrina Van de Ven said the Adult Learner Awards have been celebrated at Wintec since 2004.

“Our adult learners have returned to learning and through dedication and commitment, many achieve beyond what they ever thought possible.

“They are making an investment in their futures and as learners, they face challenges. Many have made big sacrifices, balancing time, energy, family and work commitments to keep going. It's not an easy road and we acknowledge that.”

‘They are making an investment in their futures and as learners, they face challenges. Many have made big sacrifices, balancing time, energy, family and work commitments to keep going.’

“2020 was a particularly challenging for many of our adult learners as they have faced extra obstacles due to COVID-19. The resilience and tenacity of these students has really shone through, and we're so proud of their continued efforts and achievements in the face of adversity.”

To be nominated for the Adult Learner Awards students must be over 25 years old, balance roles and responsibilities associated with being an adult learner and enrolled in a full or part-time programme at Wintec.

Nominees should demonstrate enthusiasm, determination, show support and encouragement to other learners, share new skills, knowledge and abilities, and challenge themselves and others with new ideas.

Matthew Petersen loves gaming and built a sim rig for his Level 3 Pre-Trade course at Wintec.

Engineering graduate races towards finish line on new sim rig

For Wintec mechanical engineering graduate Matthew Petersen, not having thousands of dollars to spend on the race simulator rig (sim rig) of his dreams didn't mean he couldn't have one. It just meant he would have to get a little more creative.

When choosing something to make for a self-directed project in his Mechanical Engineering Level 3 Pre-Trade course, keen gamer Matthew knew he wanted to make his very own sim rig.

“I'm really into gaming and I've always wanted to own a sim rig, but they're expensive” he says.

Matthew chose to study Mechanical Engineering at Wintec because of the practical nature of the course and for industry experience.

A lot of brainstorming, research and planning had to happen before he started building the sim rig and making it involved a high level of technical skill and expertise, a challenge that Matthew didn't shy away from.

Matthew's tutor, Peter Rameka can't speak highly enough of Matthew's efforts.

“Matthew was a really focussed student with a good eye for quality and detail. This is quite an intense project for Level 3.

“What really stands out about the project is not just the execution but the highly detailed 16-page plan. These projects need to show skill from each of the mechanical engineering disciplines we teach [welding and fabrication, fitting, machining],” says Peter.

“This project was Matthew's from the beginning to the end. When mistakes happened, and they did, Matthew recognised it and learnt from it.”

The project is a real testament to the creativity and diversity that a mechanical engineering career can have, where students are encouraged to bring their own ideas to the trade.

Matthew has plans beyond building just the one sim rig.

“I would really like to make one again. I've thought about starting my own company with a friend later down the track, making and selling race simulators and other products.”

Matthew is in the third year of his apprenticeship at Industrial Welding in Hamilton. Doing the pre-trade degree at Wintec has meant he can do three years instead of four.

So, was spending 81 hours over four months building a sim rig worth it?

“Definitely. It gets used a lot. My friends often come over and we take turns using it. I'm having a real blast.”

Passion for organics takes Eady from the farm to tertiary study

Eady Manawaiti (Ngāti Rōrā, Ngāti Maniapoto) wants to pass on his knowledge about organic farming and soil remediation to future generations.

This passion has given the 47-year-old the push he needed to begin studying Applied Science at Wintec as an adult, all while juggling family responsibilities, farming and running a business.

“I want to share my knowledge of science to all students, starting at kōhanga reo; to develop a fun science programme that encourages them to learn about natural science, starting with photosynthesis.

“By starting at kōhanga reo level, that natural flow of teaching science will generate curiosity, and then my hopes are that curiosity will be developed at tertiary level. In my legacy, that education starts here right on my farm in Te Kuiti.”

Starting that legacy just before lockdown proved to be an education all on its own, as Eady encountered more challenges than the ordinary student as he also had to run his rubbish truck business.

“I own a rubbish truck, so I was an essential worker over lockdown. From March to July, I completed my coursework in my truck, listening to lectures on my phone.”

His attitude and dynamism has not gone unnoticed. Eady was a joint recipient of the Māori and Pasifika award at Wintec’s 2020 Adult Learner Awards.

“I have no academic background. I remember my form teacher proclaiming in front of our class one day ‘You’ll be a nobody Manawaiti. A nobody!’”

After passing his Level 3 Certificate papers with flying colours, where Eady “got A grades for the first time in his life,” he decided to step up and complete a Bachelor of Technology in Environmental Science Diploma.

With science projects happening both inside the classroom and outside at his farm in Te Kuiti, and a busy rubbish truck business, he’s not ready to stop.

His soil carbon farming soil sequestration project with the Pātaka Institute for farmers involves adapting and experimenting with research on topsoil biology with an end goal to create a more sustainable farming future.

It’s this focus on the future that keeps Eady hopeful. His main desire in learning is to pass on that knowledge to a future generation of Māori learners.

Eady Manawaiti has a goal - to educate rangatahi (youth) about science and organic farming.

Merlin Connell-Nawalowalo climbs a rata tree at the Wintec City campus in Hamilton.

Fijian arboriculture student branches out from the stage to the treetops

For Fijian-Pākehā student Merlin Connell-Nawalowalo, the jump from theatre to arboriculture has been a life-changing one. Initially forging his career path as a full-time theatre actor in Wellington, Merlin joined Wintec to study Arboriculture.

Merlin, 29, was born into a family of performers and theatregoers to a Fijian/English mother and a Pākehā father.

At 20 years-old he joined Wellington-based theatre company The Conch as an intern where his Auntie Nina Nawalowalo is artistic director.

“My Auntie was directing a show called Masi. I really enjoyed being immersed in that world and I ended up performing in the show.”

He toured throughout the country as part of productions The White Guitar and The Naked Samoans do Magic. Life on the stage was fun and exhilarating. After experiencing a career high, he hit a low point.

“There’s this thing called the “post-show blues”. While on tour you’re living up here, everything feels amazing, and people are looking up to you. When you crash back to normal life, it can be quite extreme.

“One of my best mates could tell that something wasn’t right, and he said he had a job for me if I wanted it. He’s an arborist and needed someone to drag branches around.”

One day a week dragging branches soon turned into a full week and Merlin’s desires grew beyond working on the ground to being up in the treetops.

“I really wanted to get into tree climbing. The timing wasn’t great for my boss to teach me how to do that, so I started looking at other options.”

He began an arboriculture apprenticeship, then enrolled at Wintec when he realised that having an arboriculture diploma would lead to greater job security within the industry.

‘At Wintec, there’s a lot of room for me to ask questions, and to discover that there are hundreds of ways of doing things, not just one.’

“Learning on the job as an apprentice was great, but because I was working directly with clients, I was learning how to do things in a very specific way. At Wintec, there’s a lot of room for me to ask questions, and to discover that there are hundreds of ways of doing things, not just one.

“When you have tutors who can see that you’re trying and taking it seriously, you’re met with encouragement and respect. You start to feel good about what you’re doing, and you want to keep going.”

While the theatre will always be there, a career in arboriculture is now his calling.

‘The Whānau’ present their waiata app prototype to the Wintec Māori Achievement Unit.

Wintec students launch waiata app

Wintec Information Technology students created an app so that more people could become familiar with Wintec waiata (Māori songs).

A waiata app created by Wintec students to make waiata (songs) accessible, easy and fun was launched in time for Te Wiki o Te Reo Māori – Māori Language Week in September 2020.

The Wintec Waiata app was created by students in Hami Te Momo’s Level 7 Bachelor of Applied Information Technology class.

Students were given the challenge: Create an easy-to-use app prototype to help people learn Wintec waiata.

Te Momo says project-based learning is a crucial step in preparing industry-ready students.

“The students worked with Wintec’s Māori Achievement Unit as their external client. This meant that there were many opportunities for them to work with the client closely and build strong relationships.”

‘Together we asked- how do we make waiata learning accessible?’

Wintec Māori staff had long been thinking about a way to make learning and singing the waiata used at Wintec more accessible, easily available and fun.

“Together we asked - how do we make waiata learning accessible? Waiata printed on paper is a thing of the past, and at a noho (overnight marae stay) it’s not a good look. We thought – we’re in a digital age, so why haven’t we moved with it? The app seemed like a great solution to all of these questions and issues,” says Hami.

The class was split up into groups where each group was tasked with delivering their own unique version of the app. The process included research, design, coding and delivery.

“We were looking for functionality – can people use it? Can I easily find the waiata I need, understand it, and learn it?” said Wintec Project Coordinator, Māori Achievement, Waimihi Hotere.

“The concept we chose was selected because of its simplicity, it was in line with Wintec branding, featured key information about our Wintec marae, Te Kōpū Mānia o Kirikiriroa and it has English translations.”

Students in the winning group, ‘The Whānau’, – Toni Smith, Jon Sun, Stevie Berryman, Elysia Wanakore, James Brooks (JB) – worked just like a whānau, with each person knowing their strengths and playing to them.

As many of the students in ‘The Whānau’ whakapapa Māori, it was of high importance to them to create their app prototype with correct tikanga. The class also included international students.

The Wintec Waiata app is available to download from Google Play and the App Store.

Celebrating your success

Six ceremonies held over a week in March celebrate and honour the successful achievements of our students. These ceremonies are held in high regard, with Wintec dignitaries charged with conferring the degrees and awarding the diplomas and certificates.

Our graduation tradition remains relevant because of what it celebrates - the pride felt from a worthy achievement and a sense of bright anticipation for the future.

This year, around 400 graduates from 2020 have been invited to join our Claudelands ceremonies, after the Covid-19 pandemic cancelled Graduation events.

Ka whakanuia tonutia e mātou ngā rā whakawhiwhinga tohu. Heoi te whakahīhi hoki ki te tūtuki tohu mōu ā, ko te nuinga ō koutou e tū manako ana ki ngā rā whakahirahira ka heke mai nā.

我们的毕业典礼承袭传统，是对毕业生们取得的非凡成就喝彩，是宣扬自豪感，更是庆祝毕业生们即将开始的光明前途。

Academic Regalia

Wintec’s academic regalia dates back to the establishment of Europe’s earliest universities. Historically, a gown and hood were practical items worn daily over tunic and trousers (usually dark coloured), and were lined in wool, fur or silk according to the season. Over the centuries the length and cut of the gown and sleeves have changed with fashion and today, are stylised rather than practical items. The bonnet and cap are 15th century lay fashions based on the pileus, a head-dress common in the Middle Ages. The pileus quadratus (square cap) is the trencher or mortar board. Trencher is a flat board used for serving or cutting food. When turned upside down, the cap resembles a bowl on a trencher. It also looks very similar to a bricklayer’s square, flat mortar board. Today, regalia is a symbol of academic achievement and excellence.

Kākahu

To wear a kākahu, or feather cloak, is to be honoured on a special occasion and for many Māori graduands and their whānau, graduation day is one such occasion. Most kākahu are made from fine, soft fibre (muka) stripped from flax leaves. This muka is hand-rolled into threads for weaving. Feathers or coloured tags are incorporated as the garment is woven. Kākahu or korowai (a cloak with no feathers) are treasured family items, often handed down through many generations. To wear such a treasure, or tāonga, is a great honour and privilege, enhancing the wearer’s honour and bestowing prestige on that person’s whānau and tribal groups. In the context of the graduation ceremony, the cloak serves as an acknowledgement of the wearer’s achievements – overcoming many challenges on their journey to seek knowledge and growth.

Kick It In The Middle

Wouldn't it be better if I lived forever?
Isn't it strange that we come and go!
Natural selection has a grim agenda
Tickets on sale for the final show
Every time I breathe I feel a little pressure
Clock is ticking, got to get it together

Kick it in the middle, Take it to the limit
Use it or lose it, It's your world now
Read between the lines, Nothing else matters
Another day in paradise, I won't back down

Workin' on a recipe for certain extras
Icing on the cake and the ducks in a row
Never say never to a new endeavour
Try to do the best with the things I know
Every empty moment leaves nothing to remember
Catch it while I can and get it together

Kick it in the middle, Take it to the limit
Use it or lose it, It's your world now
Read between the lines, Nothing else matters
Another day in paradise, I won't back down

National Anthem

God Defend New Zealand

E Ihowā Atua,
O ngā iwi mātou rā,
Āta whakarongona;
Me aroha noa
Kia hua ko te pai;
Kia tau tō atawhai;
Manaakitia mai
Aotearoa.

God of Nations at Thy feet,
In the bonds of love we meet,
Hear our voices, we entreat,
God defend our free land.
Guard Pacific's triple star
From the shafts of strife and war,
Make her praises heard afar,
God defend New Zealand.

Waiata

For marae graduation ceremony.

He Maimai Aroha Mō Waikato

Ka mātakitaki iho au ki te riu o Waikato
Anō nei hei kapo kau ake māku
Ki te kapu o taku ringa,
Ka whakamiri noa i tōna aratau,
E tia nei he tupu pua hou.

Kia hiwa ake au i te tihi o Pirongia,
Inā hei toronga whakaruruhau mōna
Ki tōku tauawhirotanga.

Anā! Te ngoto o tōna ngāwhā
I ōna uma kīhai i ārikarika
A Maungatautari, a Maungakawa,
Ōku puke maunga, ngā taonga tuku iho:
Hoki ake nei au ki tōku awa koiora
Me ōna pikonga
He kura tangihia o te mātāmuri.

E whakawhiti atu ai i te Kōpū Mānia
O Kirikiriroa
Me ōna māra kai, te ngāwhā whakatupu
Ake o te whenua mōmona,
Hei kawē ki Ngāruawāhia,
Te huinga o te tangata.

Arā, te pae haumako, hei okiokinga mō
Taku upoko,
Hei tirohanga atu mā raro i ngā hūhā
O Taupiri.

Kei reira rā, kei te oroko hanganga o te tangata
Wāhia te tungaroa o te whare,
Te whakaputanga mō te Kīngi.

E Kore Koe e Ngaro

E kore koe e ngaro
he kākano i ruia
Kākano a te Kaahu e tū nei e
Te Kōpū Mānia, te ngāwhā whakatupu
Ka tupu he tangata, rere ki te ao
Horahia Matariki, kūmea ngā waka
Herea ki te pou o te aroha e
Te Atairangikaahu, tāiri kei runga
Ko Kīngi Tūheitia ki te whenua e
Piki ake Tāwhaki, tāhūhū matapū
Ngā kete wānanga e toru e
Whitikitia rā, ka turuturu iho
E ko Te Kuratini o Waikato e.

Purea Nei

Purea nei e te hau
Horoia e te ua
Whitiwhitia e te rā
Mahea ake ngā pōraruru
Makere ana ngā here
E rere wairua e rere
Ki ngā ao o te rangi
Whitiwhitia e te rā
Mahea ake ngā pōraruru
Makere ana ngā here.

Pūpuke Te Hihiri

Piki ake e tama e Hine
I te ahurei o te Kuratini o Waikato
He mātāpono whakaū kounga
Ka whakaata i te angitū

Pūpuke te hihiri
Pūpuke te mahara
Pūpuke te wānanga a te Kore

Nō ngā kete i pikihia e Tāwhaki
He wairua, he mauri, he mana, he reo
He māramatanga, he mātauranga
He iho o te ahurea.

Tūtira Mai

Tūtira mai ngā iwi,
tātou, tātou e
Tūtira mai ngā iwi,
tātou, tātou e
Whaia te maramatanga,
me te aroha - e ngā iwi!
Kia tapa tahi,
Kia kotahi rā
Tātou, tātou e
(Repeat)
Tātou, tātou e
Hi aue - hei.

Me Whakaiti Tātou

Me whakaiti tātou
Ki te reo karanga
Whoatu te aroha
Whoatu te aroha
Ko tō tātou hiahia, kia pai te noho
Ki tēnei kāinga, he kāinga mahana
