1. Purpose & Scope

This policy details how Te Kuratini o Waikato (Wintec) assists kaimahi (staff members), ākonga (learners), contractors and visitors to encourage understanding, acceptance, and connection within the community of Te Kuratini o Waikato. This includes those of different ages, cultures, ethnicities and religions, as well as those with disabilities or accessibility issues, and those of our Āniwaniwa/Rainbow (LGBTQIA+) community.

Te Kuratini o Waikato aims to provide a safe and inclusive environment which supports individuals to access the advice and assistance they need to maintain their own mental health. We know that mental health is about more than just being free of mental illness, it also includes wellness, happiness and resilience. We recognise that positive mental health leads to improved general health and increased happiness, which in turn leads to a flourishing community. This policy details how we proactively promote the mental health of our Te Kuratini o Waikato community; how we communicate and respond to mental health concerns; how we meet our legislative obligations and demonstrate our values with regards to the mental health of Te Kuratini o Waikato kaimahi and ākonga.

This policy applies to all Te Kuratini o Waikato kaimahi, board members, ākonga, contractors, and visitors. We have several policies that intersect with our Mental Health policy that you may wish to read in conjunction with this policy. You can find a list of applicable policies under Section 8. Related Legislation, Regulations, Policies, Guidelines, and Forms, in this policy.

2. Policy Statement

We are committed to promoting and supporting positive mental health. We strive to be innovative, supportive, and holistic in our approach to the mental wellbeing of everyone at Te Kuratini o Waikato. The following principles guide our approach to mental health:

2.1. Prevention first - Mental Wellbeing

Te Kuratini o Waikato strives to do no harm with respect to individuals' mental health. Our goal is to empower and encourage kaimahi and ākonga to proactively manage their own mental wellbeing through working collaboratively to create strategies to achieve positive outcomes. We will provide opportunities for kaimahi and ākonga to invest and engage in understanding the value of identifying and maintaining their mental wellbeing and factors that may contribute to this.

The prevention first approach includes but is not limited to, education and information campaigns; training in health, safety, and wellbeing for our kaimahi and ākonga; and dedicated resources for counselling and specialty services. We are committed to ensuring a healthy and safe place of work and study and a culture of dignity and respect where people who experience mental health issues can find support and seek treatment free from stigma or shame.

2.2. Work together for better outcomes

We believe that the best approach to mental wellbeing is one where our community works together. This includes our Māori and Pacific kaimahi and ākonga. Preserving and maintaining mental wellbeing is something that affects all areas of Te Kuratini o Waikato, so we have built networks with ākonga/student bodies, chaplaincy, counsellors and our People and Culture team to ensure proactive, effective, and consistent approaches to supporting mental wellbeing.

2.3. Te Tiriti o Waitangi

Under our Tiriti Partnerships policy, Te Kuratini o Waikato embrace and foster the vision of tangata whenua to ensure safe processes are adopted that are both respectful and fair. We are committed to partnership with Māori that enables and normalises wairuatanga (Māori language, values, principles, and spiritual beliefs) in our practices, and we strive to provide culturally responsive and appropriate treatment options (a kaupapa Māori approach) and are actively seeking to build relationships with local Māori Health Providers.

2.4. Reporting and recording

One of the most important tools in managing mental health concerns are effective reporting and record keeping. We aim to ensure our reporting tools, protocols and processes are both effective and easy to use. This helps build a culture that encourages people to reach out for help and an environment where we can ensure nothing gets missed.

At Te Kuratini o Waikato, we use the Vault reporting system, a secure health management and reporting system.

2.5. Respecting your right to privacy

We realise there can be stigma attached to issues surrounding poor mental health and understand that disclosure of these can cause anxiety amongst some people. In line with our Privacy policy and obligations, we will only ask you to disclose the information we need to, and wherever possible will collect this from you directly.

Any information disclosed by you will be stored securely, and only used for the purpose for which it was collected. Personal information will only be disclosed within the bounds of the law. We will uphold your rights, including your right not to share information with us, your right to access information we hold about you, and your right to request correction of any information we hold about you.

5. Supporting Information

5.1. Pastoral care requirements and support

The Education (Pastoral Care of International Students) Code of Practice 2016 and the Education (Pastoral Care of Domestic Tertiary Students) Interim Code of Practice 2019 have helped guide our approach to pastoral care and mental health. These Codes have been replaced by the Education \(Pastoral Care of Tertiary and International Learners\) Code of Practice 2021 / Ngā Tikanga Mahi Mātauranga \(Te Manaaki i Ngā Ākonga Mātauranga Matua me Ērā o Tāwāhi\) 2021 (the Code). Tertiary providers are currently working through how the new Code may alter the level of pastoral care provided. As a responsible employer and tertiary institution co-signatory to the Code, we have a moral and legal obligation to support our ākonga and kaimahi.

In the interim, we have a range of internal support services and processes in place to satisfy our pastoral care obligations. Internal services may identify and refer learners who are experiencing difficulties and those at risk of harming others and having clear pathways for assisting them to access appropriate services on campus or in the community when they need it.

5.2. Te Kuratini o Waikato’s commitment to staff

As a responsible employer, we recognise that mental health concerns can occur throughout our lives, during various life stages such as retirement, career transition, relationship conflict, parenthood, etc., or be caused by events such as family conflict, menopause, gender transition, institutional and interpersonal racism, bullying, harassment, or inequitable workload allocation.

Whatever the reason, we are committed to supporting staff who experience mental health illness. The below are what we consider good practice for supporting people who experience a mental health episode or illness, to work positively and successfully:

- Flexible hours, in terms of where and when they work, and how much.

- Managers will be cognisant of people's workloads and support self-management of those
- Te Kuratini o Waikato will not treat people differently in employment because of their experience of mental health illness (this includes, through job advertisements, interviews, job offers, working conditions and pay or being forced to retire or leave)
- Managers will practice good employer attributes of caring, empathetic, treating people fairly, high integrity and being flexible.
- Te Kuratini o Waikato will create a friendly, respectful, communicative work environment with a culture of flexibility, inclusion and diversity.

We have a range of policies that may cross over with a mental health issue you are experiencing. These can be found under Section 8. Related Legislation, Regulations, Policies, Guidelines, and Forms, in this policy.

In the event that you are experiencing an issue regarding workload allocation, we encourage kaimahi to work with their immediate manager in the first instance, and refer to the Workload for Academic Staff Members (ASMs) Part A and Part B. If this does not resolve the issue, the staff member may choose to register their issue using Vault, and/or approach their People and Culture Business Partner directly to discuss.

5.3. Health and Safety at Work Act 2015

The main purpose of the Health and Safety at Work Act 2015 is to provide for a balanced framework to secure the health and safety of workers and workplaces. It aims to achieve this by protecting workers and other persons against harm to their health, safety and welfare by eliminating or minimising risks arising from work.

5.4. Privacy Act 2020 and the Health Information Privacy Code 2020

The Privacy Act ("the Act") and Health Information Privacy Code ("the Code") cover how information is collected, used, held and disclosed by organisations such as ours. Due to the nature of mental health issues and our role as both employer and educator of health-related disciplines, Te Kuratini o Waikato applies the Health Information Privacy Rules when dealing with mental health related matters regarding the personal information of kaimahi and ākonga. These rules replace the Information Privacy Principles found in the Act, and Printed Copies are not Controlled. Please refer to the Wintec Policy Web for the most current version.

MENTAL HEALTH

generally carry a higher threshold to be reached when collecting, using, holding or disclosing the information.

For the sake of clarity, before releasing personal information about ākonga or kaimahi to another party (such as a whānau member or support person), Te Kuratini o Waikato kaimahi must ensure they have the express permission of the person whose information is to be released. Where possible, this should be in writing. Refer to our Privacy Policy for more information. Staff members can also visit our Privacy page on the Digital Workplace for more.

In situations where disclosure is necessary to avoid immediately endangering a person's health or safety, or when disclosure is required to enforce or uphold the law, staff members may disclose certain personal information about a person.

Note: In instances where information must be released under urgency – a critical event – where there is an imminent threat of harm to a person's self or others, any request to disclose should be escalated to the Coordinated Incident Management (CIMs) Team and/or the Safety and Wellbeing Director, who will escalate any privacy matters to the Privacy Officer.. In the event that the Te Kuratini o Waikato staff member or contractor is unable to escalate to the Safety and Wellbeing Director or CIMs Team before releasing the information, they must advise them and the Privacy Officer as soon as practicable following the release. Refer to our Privacy policy for more information.

6. Procedures

6.1. Reporting a mental health concern

The Accident and Incident Reporting policy covers how we report and manage accidents and incidents at Te Kuratini o Waikato, and sets out our procedures for reporting, recording, investigating, and monitoring all accidents and incidents.

Mental wellbeing and mental health concerns could be described as incidents, notifiable events or sometimes work-related illness that may require reporting, recording, investigation and monitoring.

We have several ways mental health issues can be reported:

- Vault
- Te Kuratini o Waikato counsellors
- Te Kuratini o Waikato Health Services
- Tutors
- Contact with the MHBP
- Classmates
- Other Te Kuratini o Waikato staff

MENTAL HEALTH

Oranga Tangata

While our preference is that all reporting comes via Vault feedback, we recognise that concerns can be raised through a range of different avenues. Nevertheless, all concerns regardless of how they are initially reported will be documented within Te Kuratini o Waikato's secure and confidential Vault reporting system.

Critical Events

In the event of a crisis or critical event – where there is an immediate threat of harm to a person's self or others – all staff and students should ring 111. Once emergency services have been notified, contact Wintec Security on the campus contact numbers below. Emergency telephones are mounted in two locations on the City Campus:

On the steps between A and B Blocks

Level 1 entrance to the multi-storey car park on Nisbet Street

City Campus Security: 0800 852 900 or ext. 9000 (24 hours a day)

Rotokauri Campus Security: 027 477 9985 or ext. 4041 (6am-10pm, Monday-Friday)

Security will inform the Safety & Wellbeing Director

For members of staff, direct contact must be made with a member of the Safety & Wellbeing team.

Kaimahi, ākonga, or contractors, whether they are the victim, an observer, bystander or confidant should ideally report mental health related events or incidents through Vault within 24 hours or as soon as practicable.

The report may be completed by the person involved, or, if they are unable to complete the report, any other member of staff. Te Kuratini o Waikato is committed to ensuring all kaimahi and ākonga have access to the event reporting forms in Vault.

6.2. Triage

The essential function of triage is to determine the nature and severity of the mental health/wellbeing concern, determine which response would best meet the needs of the individual, and how urgently the response is required. The Mental Health Business Partner (MHBP) is qualified and experienced to be able to assess and triage mental health concerns and will do so once a report of concern has been made.

- MHBP undertakes a preliminary assessment of reported concerns and this may involve an email or phone conversation with the person reporting.
- MHBP determines if further action and interventions are required. Vault is updated to reflect this.
- If it has been determined that the event is a critical or urgent incident the MHBP refers to mental health critical incident process, if not the MHBP develops a plan exploring and prioritising the pathways for help.

Printed Copies are not Controlled. Please refer to the Wintec Policy Web for the most current version.

MENTAL HEALTH

Oranga Tangata

6.3. Handover

When a concern has been raised (either via Vault or with a member of the Safety and Wellbeing team), the MHBP will contact the person who raised the concern and begin a preliminary assessment.

Depending on the nature and severity of the concern, and where the concern has been raised by kaimahi about ākonga, with the consent of the ākonga, the MHBP will seek to facilitate a handover between kaimahi and ākonga in a way that is culturally appropriate.

Where kaimahi have raised a concern without the knowledge of the ākonga, the MHBP may choose to engage with the ākonga first and will not necessarily facilitate a handover with kaimahi. Where the MHBP is handing over the care of the ākonga to an external provider, this will be done in consultation with the ākonga as to whether others are involved. Any such handovers will be documented in Vault.

6.4. Monitoring and management

The MHBP documents a plan identifying the pathways for support, including monitoring and management, special considerations, return to work plans, liaison with internal or external support. This is documented within Vault.

6.5. Responding to crises

If there is an urgent mental health concern identified the Te Kuratini o Waikato CIMS Team is activated to work in conjunction with the MHBP to determine appropriate steps to ensure the safety of the individual and others. The response may include the need to refer to an external agency.

6.6. Record keeping

All interactions by the MHBP or CIMS Team with regard to the management and monitoring of mental health concerns at Te Kuratini o Waikato are kept within our secure Vault Feedback system. All actions in relation to the concern must be clearly dated and documented. Records stored in Vault Feedback are confidential. All records stored in Vault are done so in accordance with the Privacy Act 2020 and the Health Information Privacy Code 2020.

For clarity and peace of mind, all personal health information disclosed to Te Kuratini o Waikato counsellors, the Health Centre, and external health agencies remains separate and inaccessible from any personal health information stored in Vault.

6.7. Critical incident debriefing

Refer to Coordinated Incident Management policy and crossover with this policy and the steps/processes for debriefing after mental health related critical incidents. In brief these describe the need to debrief with any kaimahi or ākonga involved in the incident to ascertain if they require any further assistance eg, counselling, or our Employee Assistance Programme (EAP), etc.

9. Key Definitions & Glossary

Disability

Disability is not something individuals have. What individuals have are impairments. They may be physical, sensory, neurological, psychiatric, intellectual or other impairments. Instead, ‘Disability’ is the process which happens when one group of people create barriers by designing a world only for their way of living, taking no account of the impairments other people have.

The Human Rights Act (1993) provides the legal framework for accommodating people with impairments who are attending a tertiary institution. This includes people with short-term injury or illness, the Deaf community and people with other long-term and/or fluctuating impairments such as medical conditions, learning problems, head injury, physical / mobility limitations, blindness or low-vision, speech problems, mental health and other hidden impairments.

Event	Groups together all reporting categories being accident, illness, incident, near miss and observations.
Holistic Wellbeing	Holistic wellbeing is your overall state of wellness on all levels of your being: physical, emotional, mental and spiritual. It encompasses the health of your entire being and extends to everyone and everything that interacts with you in any way. That includes your resources, your environment, and your relationships. See also, Te Whare Tapa Whā .
Incident	An unforeseen and unintended event which might have resulted in injury to a person or damage to property, i.e. 'a near miss'. See also, Near miss .
Mental illness	Also referred to as mental disorders or mental health conditions. Mental illnesses are health conditions involving changes in emotion, thinking or behaviour (or a combination of these). Mental illnesses are associated with distress and/or problems functioning in social, work or family activities. They occur when ongoing symptoms cause frequent distress and affect a person's ability to function. Mental illness is believed to be influenced by a combination of biological, psychological (including wairuatanga or spiritual wellbeing) and social factors (including the strength of cultural identity and connection with whenua). Taha hinengaro or mental wellbeing, is intrinsically linked to Māori ways of thinking, feeling and behaving (see also Te Whare Tapa Whā). Mental illness can influence the way a person thinks, feels, behaves and/or how they relate to others. Examples include depression, anxiety, bipolar disorder, schizophrenia, eating disorders, PTSD, psychosis, perinatal depression, obsessive compulsive disorder (OCD) and addictive behaviours. Mental illness is treatable. The vast majority of individuals who experience mental illness continue to function in their daily lives and can often manage symptoms with the appropriate treatment and support.
Mental health	Mental health is more than just being free of mental illness, but also includes having mental wellness and happiness, and flourishing. Mental health can increase general health, wellbeing and resilience. Individuals diagnosed with mental illness can still experience positive mental health.

MENTAL HEALTH

Oranga Tangata

We acknowledge there are several factors and external influences can impact on mental health. These may include, religion, maramataka (Māori lunar calendar), whānau, environmental and work and study obligations. Everyone has mental health, just as we all have physical health. Mental health is best understood as simply our state of mind.

Near miss

A near miss, "near hit", "close call", or "nearly a collision" is an unplanned event that has the potential to cause, but does not actually result in human injury, environmental or equipment damage, or an interruption to normal operation a near miss as an incident in which no property was damaged and no personal injury was sustained, but where, given a slight shift in time or position, damage or injury easily could have occurred

Te Whare Tapa Whā

The Four-sided House. A Māori health model steeped in te ao Māori, Te Whare Tapa Whā was developed by Sir Mason Durie in 1984. Te Whare Tapa Whā takes a collective kaupapa or interrelated and holistic approach to health and wellbeing. The model is built around the whare or house, with the walls and roofs representing different dimensions of health. These are taha tinana (physical health), taha wairua (spiritual health), taha whānau (family health), and taha hinengaro (mental health). These dimensions are all connected and act in unison, to provide the foundations for good health. In recent years a fifth dimension – whenua – our connection to land and roots, is often included in the model (known as Te Whare Tapa Rima, or the Five-sided House model). See also, Holistic Wellbeing.

Vault

Te Kuratini o Waikato’s event reporting platform. Used to record and monitor all injuries, illnesses, incidents, near-misses, hazards, observations, corrective actions and hazardous substance management. All staff members can use Vault, while the Safety & Wellbeing Manager and some People & Culture staff have greater access to assist with the management, reporting and rehabilitation of various safety and wellbeing related events.

10. Records Management

In with the Public Records Act 2005, Te Kuratini o Waikato is required to provide an Information and Records Management programme to ensure that authentic, reliable and usable records are created, captured and managed to a standard of best practice, and to meet business and legislative requirements.
