5. Supporting Information

5.1. Raising a Concern

We provide a range of options and processes for people to speak up and bring concerns, allegations and complaints in relation to sexual harassment; regardless of whether the person(s) are directly affected or have witnessed sexual harassment. Issues will be resolved at the most appropriate level of intervention, subject to the rights of the complainant and the respondent.

Where possible, we promote the resolution of issues at the lowest appropriate level of intervention as this may sometimes be the fastest and most effective way of dealing with inappropriate behaviour, particularly for issues that are perceived as 'minor' (for example, behaviours that do not cause the complainant to feel unsafe, or seriously harmed, threatened or intimidated).

We recognise that people may find it difficult or embarrassing to instigate a complaint of sexual harassment. A support person can always be invited to be present. This also applies to staff and students when accessing counselling services.

5.2. Digital Communication and Social Media

We recognise that not all sexual harassment takes place face-to-face. Digital communication includes any form of electronic message, including texts, emails, posts on social media, photos and recordings. Harmful digital communications include cyber-harassment, such as:

- sending or publishing threatening or offensive material
- spreading damaging rumours
- sending or publishing sensitive personal information, e.g. embarrassing photos or videos.

We take seriously our obligations under the Harmful Digital Communications Act 2015 (HDCA) and the 10 Communication Principles outlined within. We expect all staff members and students to treat others with respect when using digital communication and social media. Staff members are expected to follow our Social Media policy and related guidelines when operating Wintec social media accounts or when referring to Wintec in their own personal social media accounts.

In the event that you receive or witness a digital communication that breaks any of the principles of the HDCA, you can raise a concern or make a complaint as per 5.1 Raising a Concern above.

5.3. Handling Complaints

Whether behaviour or language amounts to sexual harassment is often a matter of subjective and personal judgment. For that reason, we consider informal processes for raising and resolving issues may, in particular circumstances, be sufficient. However, that does not affect the right of an individual to make a formal complaint.

PREVENTION OF AND RESPONSE TO SEXUAL HARASSMENT

We undertake that all complaints of sexual harassment will be treated seriously, provided they are made in good faith. Disciplinary action may be taken against an individual whose complaint is frivolous, vexatious, or not made in good faith.

No person is obliged to make a complaint of sexual harassment if that person chooses not to do so.

All complaints made under this policy, and information gathered while investigating complaints, will be treated as confidential information, subject to the Privacy Act 1993.

Staff members, contractors and volunteers at Wintec who wish to raise concerns, check what internal and external support is available, or make complaints in relation to sexual harassment, should refer to our Employee Complaint Management policy and the Stand Up, Speak Up information page.

If a complaint relates to the Chief Executive, it should be made directly to the Council Chair. See the Protected Disclosures \(Whistle Blowing\) policy.

Students of Wintec who wish to raise concerns, check what support is available, or make complaints in relation to sexual harassment, should refer to our Student Voice policy.

5.4. Self-help

It is often sufficient for a complainant to approach the alleged offender directly, in person or in writing, and:

- identify the language or behaviour that has given offence,
- state that the language or behaviour is unwelcome and offensive,
- seek an assurance that it will not be repeated.

If the complainant and the offender speak directly, it may be appropriate for the complainant to be accompanied by a support person or a manager or a representative from the People and Culture team.

Informal resolution through direct communication is the preferred first step, although that will not always be appropriate or practical. The objective is to bring the unwelcome and offensive nature of the language or behaviour to the attention of the person responsible for it. In many cases, this will be enough to stop the unwelcome behaviour.

An apology, with an assurance that there will be no repetition, may be an appropriate resolution.

5.5. Informal Approach

If a complaint cannot be resolved directly, or a complainant is not comfortable raising the matter directly, the individual should seek help from a support person or a manager or a representative from the People and Culture team.

Te Ture ārai Whakaraweke Tangata

When a request for an informal intervention is made, the request must be acted on quickly, discreetly and fairly. All discussions and any investigations must be conducted in confidence and in consultation with a People and Culture or Safety and Wellbeing Business partner or manager.

The aim of this informal intervention is to ensure that the alleged harasser becomes aware of, and understands the effect of, the language or behaviour on the complainant. The intervenor should seek an undertaking that the language or behaviour will not be repeated. There may also be an apology to the complainant.

5.6. Mediation

In some situations, arranging for a complainant and respondent to discuss the complaint with a skilled mediator may be an appropriate way to address the issue. Both parties need to agree to mediation.

Mediation is not always appropriate to resolve behaviour issues, particularly if there is a power imbalance. Mediation may be suitable where:

- there is basic agreement on the facts
- both parties agree to try to resolve the situation through this method
- the harassment is of a low level and serious disciplinary consequences do not appear warranted.

A mediator may be someone mutually agreed between the parties or from the Ministry of Business, Innovation and Employment's mediation service.

If a complainant and the respondent cannot resolve the complaint through mediation, then formal options are available.

5.7. Formal Approach

If a staff member has been unable to achieve a resolution through the informal approach, or circumstances are such that resolution through the informal approach would be inappropriate due to the nature or seriousness of the complaint, Wintec will follow the formal approach set out in the Employee Complaint Management policy or Protected Disclosure policy, if applicable.

5.8. Complaint to Human Rights Commission

A staff member may take a complaint of sexual harassment directly to the Human Rights Commission under the Human Rights Act 1993. A complaint to the Commission is an alternative to a personal grievance under the Employment Relations Act.

5.9. Personal Grievance

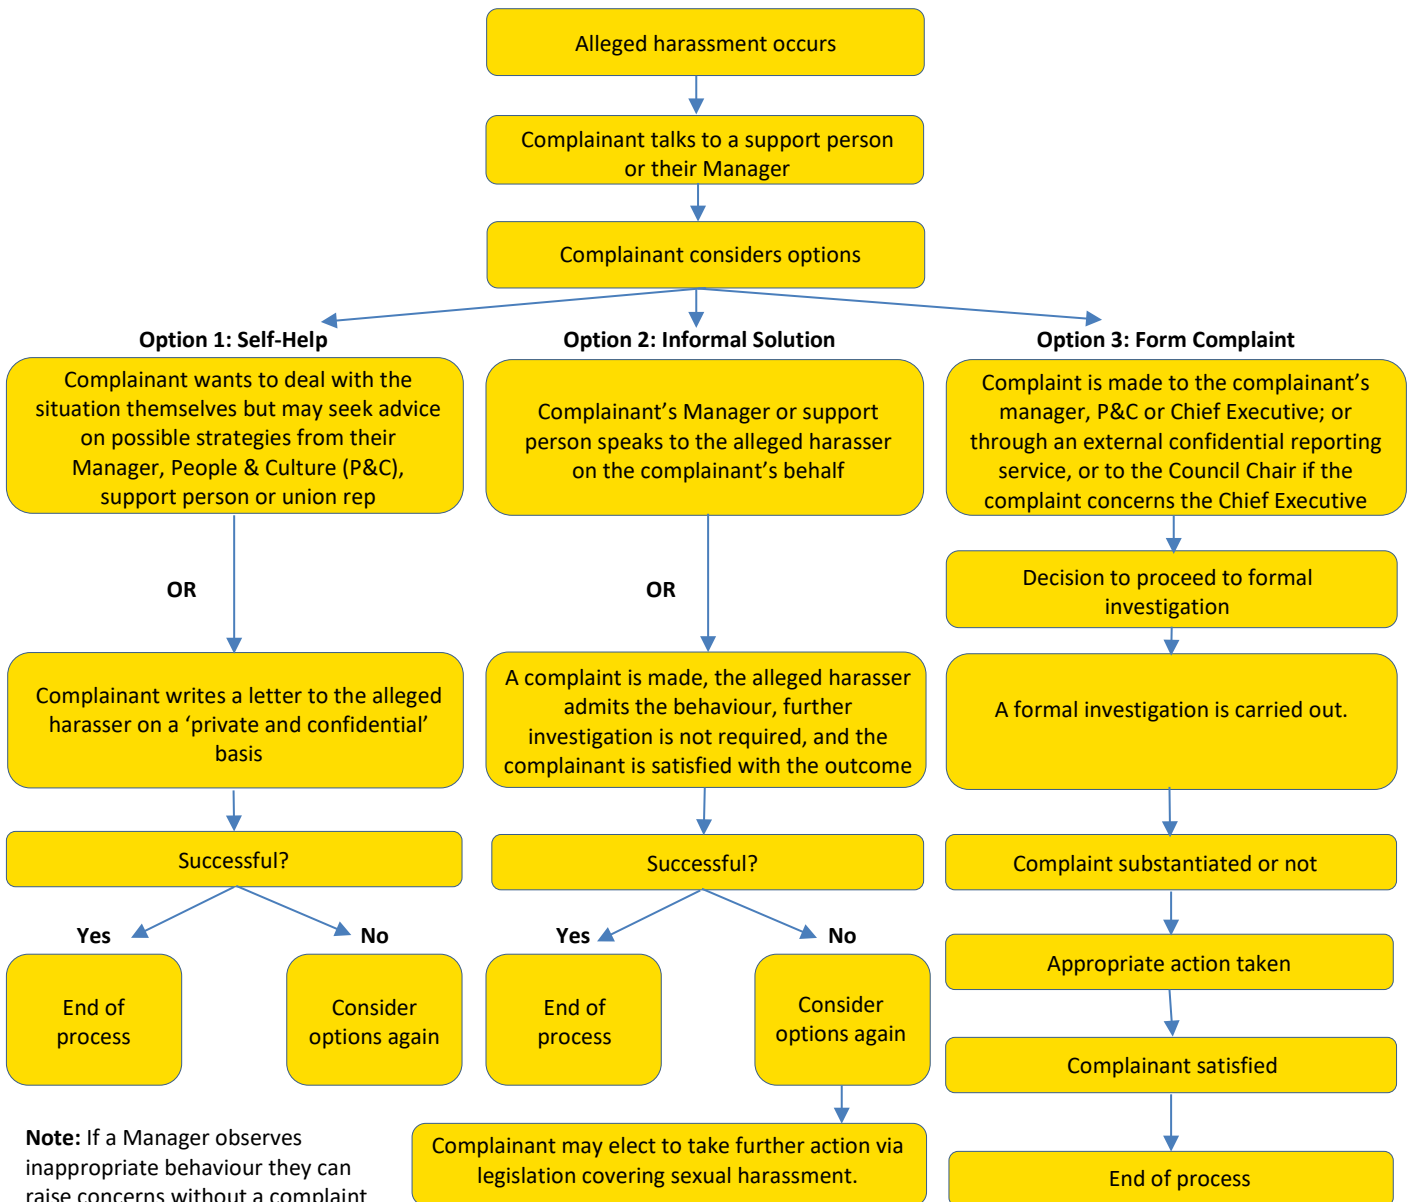

An employee may lodge a personal grievance, alleging sexual harassment in employment, with the Employment Relations Authority under the Employment Relations Act 2000. A personal grievance is an alternative to a complaint to the Human Rights Commission.

Employment Relations Act 2000

The Employment Relations Act 2000 provides that an employee is sexually harassed in that employee's employment if that employee's employer or a representative of that employer —

 - (i) an implied or overt promise of preferential treatment in that employee's employment; or
 - (ii) an implied or overt threat of detrimental treatment in that employee's employment; or
 - (iii) an implied or overt threat about the present or future employment status of that employee; or
- (b) by —
 - (i) the use of language (whether written or spoken) of a sexual nature; or
 - (ii) the use of visual material of a sexual nature; or
 - (iii) physical behaviour of a sexual nature, —

directly or indirectly subjects the employee to behaviour that is unwelcome or offensive to that employee (whether or not that is conveyed to the employer or representative) and that, either by its nature or through repetition, has a detrimental effect on that employee's employment, job performance, or job satisfaction.

The Act provides that an employee is also sexually harassed in that employee's employment if the unwelcome or offensive request or behaviour is made by a co-employee or by a client or customer of the employer.
