Key Facts

Calgary, Alberta

- Area: 825.56 km²
- Population: 1.2 million

Calgary, a cosmopolitan Alberta city with numerous skyscrapers, owes its rapid growth to its status as the centre of Canada's oil industry. However, it's still steeped in the western culture that earned it the nickname "Cowtown," evident in the Calgary Stampede, its massive July rodeo and festival that grew out of the farming exhibitions once presented here. Average daytime high in July of 24C. Average daytime high in January of -3C. Although it can get cold here as well winter can have a warm spell called a Chinook.

English is the official language.

The University

- 16,000 students

Mount Royal University is located in the traditional territories of the Niitsitapi (Blackfoot) and the people of the Treaty 7 region in southern Alberta, which includes the Siksika, the Piikani, the Kainai, the Tsuut'ina and the Îyârhe Nakoda. We are situated on land where the Bow River meets the Elbow River. The traditional Blackfoot name of this place is "Mohkinstsis," which we now call the city of Calgary, also home to the Métis Nation.

Mount Royal University has a long history of teaching excellence. For more than 100 years, we have provided quality post-secondary education to students from Canada and around the world.

MRU's average class size of 30 students means you can get to know your classmates and professors in a personal learning environment. join MCI every year. A number that is significantly increasing, and speaks volumes.

Study

Some classrooms have four walls, some have none. While you'll definitely sit in a few classrooms, some of the best hands-on learning is done in nature or in one of our state-of-the-art simulation, computer and science labs. Learning happens everywhere.

Whether you're in a sociology or business class, your professors will use innovative teaching practices to challenge and support you. You know that feeling when you solve a problem or see something in a new light? Yeah, that happens a lot here.

They have extinct marine reptile casts hanging from the ceiling, a rockscape dedicated to learning more about rock formations and the new Riddell Library and Learning Centre. Oh, did we mention the community garden? Explore every corner and you'll find something new.

International Student Support

The International Student Support Centre (ISSC) is a dedicated space to get information from student leaders who can provide help and connect you with international and Canadian students. You can join events and engage in social and cultural activities.
